Modelling the Near Future/Collision & Mutation

A lecture by Tom Lloyd of PearsonLloyd Design
Co-hosted by Bushell Interiors and Tacchini

September 2019 – Following a successful event last year in Shanghai, Tacchini is now partnering with one of its major distributors in Ireland, Bushell Interiors, to host a lecture by renowned architect and designer Tom Lloyd of London-based studio PearsonLloyd Design.

Theme

The presentation is focused on the idea of COLLISION. There are multiple changes going on in the world at the moment, on a technological, cultural, social, demographic and political level. These changes are creating a vortex of change in human behaviour, environment, services, and business models. In his talk, Tom Lloyd will try to make sense of this extraordinary change. Using design thinking he will help articulate and interpret the world using some of the studio's work as a reference.
