

FIVE TO NINE (Sofa, Daybed) design Studiopepe

The Five to Nine daybed has its roots in those 1900s interiors that portrayed a place for creative escape – a space as physical as it was mental – the studios of the great artists. The daybed has a wood structure with open-pore painted finish and turned legs. Bolster pillows upholstered in leather or mohair velvet run its entire length, and an armrest and backrest can be freely positioned along the edge, while an integrated round coffee table with metal or cement surface completes the piece.

The seat can be a place to relax or wait in comfort and, thanks to its sleek linear design, it can stand alone or be part of an arrangement of several pieces and accessories. Drawing inspiration from the Japanese lifestyle philosophy, the daybed can also be used as a guest bed, with a special linen-upholstered, softly padded mattress that, when placed on the bolster pillows, transforms the seat into a real sleep oasis.

The Company

Tacchini is a design company, specialised in the creation of furnishings with a unique and refined style.

Tacchini is a family history. Founded by Antonio Tacchini in Brianza in 1967, in a historical period of great creative ferment, where Made in Italy manufacturing excellence is enriched with new aesthetic and functional visions on living domestic environments, the company has always placed the idea at the centre of every creative moment, from abstract thinking to the three-dimensionality of the object, to then become the essence of living.

Tacchini is a reference point in the Made in Italy furniture sector, thanks to its constant stylistic and functional research, project and the product culture, care for people and the environment. The link with the contemporary world is enhanced by the choice of high-quality materials and constantly updated production technologies, which, however, never lose sight of the tradition they derive from, thus avoiding the possibility of confusing style with fashions and design with simple series production.

Tacchini aims to improve the quality of private and public spaces, in a world where needs, technologies and lifestyles are constantly changing. This is the reason why Tacchini researches and improves its products and services tirelessly, with passion, creativity and responsibility. The result is an uninterrupted “work in progress” of versatile and original solutions, adaptable to any environment and situation, capable of arousing emotions day by day, and lasting over time.

Dimensions: W 200 D 75 H 40,5 cm
 W 200 D 75 H 68 cm with headrest
 W 200 D 79,5 H 68 cm with linear backrests
 W 200 D 84 H 40,5 cm with vis a vis backrests
 Materials: natural or varnished wood for structure metal or concrete top for the table